It is also easy of application, and its cost is trilli usually about one cent per bashel

It has been often observed that a mutty crop will sometimes result when good clean seed has been sown. This good elean seed has been sown. This is believed to arise from smut spores in the soil coming in contact with the in the soil coming in contact with the grain when germinating. As millions of these spores are spread in all directions by wind during the period of threshing and carried long distances there are doubtless large numbers of them in the soil in all the wheat growing districts of the country. Hence it is much asfer to treat all seed before sowing, whether it is perceptibly smal-ty or not, as the conting of bluestone on the treated grain will protect the seed from attack by spores in the soil."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The following anecdote is related of a certain graceless physician, called once upon a time to listen to the woes of a female patient. The lady reconsted her physical troubles and finished by saying that she could neither "lay, nor stund, nowset," "Allow mether, master," "allow mether, master," "allow mether, master," "to suggest the propriety of rossing." COMMUNICATION.

DEAR SIE

Ater purchasing and perusing your issue of 24th March I cannot help myself from making a few remarks upon what is going on in town and country, and she creditable way your paper gives it to the public at large.

Mr. Watson publishes a letter to Prof. Robertson eraving help from the Dominion Government to start and run a Creamery at Moose Jaw to be a bruefit to the farmers in this district. I cannot see how Mr. Watson or any other farmer on the prairie can thin that the present Government what ever it may be, can give them any help without first raising the tariff a little higher on our daily necessaries of life. Then the Commissioners, Presidents, Secretaries, &c. &c. are paid high salaries for apperintending the pro-duct of the farmers' cows and putting Surely Prof. Robertson gave our friend Mr. Wm. Watson a sound ad-vice when he said "Let the farmers do their own work and get their own profits," and not give to others what they should get themselves. That is been here more than I will be able to digest in as many years to come; even if free trade was given to our country as soon as it could possibly be done, and which is the only medicine which will dure the masses of the people of Canada of that disadful disease, over-For March the revenue mounted to Canada of that divadful disease, over $3,306,237, and expenditure (21.5.0), tax-tion, which sometimes ends it 175. The revenue for the revenue victims of that divadful disease, over $1.70. eight months was $23,528,392, and expenditures $21,172,130 making for for the want of right nutritions food, the nine months a total revenue of clothing, tuck a good house and stable

On the other hand Mr. Jas. Chairmers has given the people of Mose Jaw and the whole of the province of Assimibola a lesson how to do with lawyers in not employing any as al. "FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1893.

Here and There.

Among the many things I notice is Among the many things I notice is a disposition to discuss everything. Festerday a sold wave kept a number of people in-doors at a village boarding-house, and, as four men of the party re-presented widely divergent views and interests, the opinions they expressed in a free conversation may be worth

"This tariff has to be materially modified for Mamitoba. Porty five percent, duty on nearly everything a farmer buys is not the National Policy I voted for in '78, and which I still believe in. It is not the national Policy on which Sir John appealed to the country, as the country understood it, neither is it the policy for North-West Canada."

"Well," said a local business man, "I am not a supporter of the government or a believer in high tariff. I want the customs walls lowered between us and the United States somehow, if it can be done fairly. Of course if Amorican politicians propose to starve or corree us into annexation there is no use our talking Reciprocity with them; still it seems strange that a basis could not be agreed upon for a return to the fiscal arrangement of '54—'64, under which the people of both countries certainly prospered."

"I don't raise any question of foreign trade relations," replied the first speak-er, "The probable action of the United States is always an unknown quantity in the problem. The matter I look at in the problem. The matter I look at is, that, if protection protects, a period of 15 years should suffice to set infant industries on their legs. It's high time some of them were weaned. Of course there's the question of revenue to be considered." "Why do you say 'of course," said another member of the party,—one whose scholarly features bore evidence of intimate acquaintance with books, —

"Dees it not occur to you that the more revenue a government collects, the more will be needed to meet the growing demand upon the Consoldated Fund? In my opinion there is where a halt should be called in the first in-stance. The so-called 'Department' are constantly enlarging, not at all in any intelligent ratio to the needs of the country, but having a very practic relation to the needs of the office seck ers, the contract-seekers, and the dif-ferent localities seeking subsidies in the shape of public works. It may seem redantic to bring a maxim from an on old-world historian; yet we might do worse than make a note of one such. do werse than make a note of one such. Hallam says, "It is difficult to name a limit beyond which taxes will not be borne without impatience when they appear to be called for by necessity and faithfully applied; nor is it impracticable for a skillful minister to decive the people in both these reserve. But the sting of taxetion is But the sting of taxation is wastefulness. What high-spirited man could see without indignation the earnings of his labor, yielded ungrudgingly to the public needs, become the spoil of parasites and peculators? It is this that mortifies the liberal hand of public spirit : and those statesme of public spirit; and those statesmen who deem the security of the government to depend upon the meral sympathies and prejudices of the people, will vigilantly guard against even the suspicion of prodigality. This principle, enunciated by the most impartial of historians with reference impartial of historians with reference to France 500 years ago, is not with, out force in considering what a "Revenue Tariff ought to be in Canada today. You may call me a Grit, I have no party politics, and indeed I fear if Mr. Laurier were in power next week he would be as helpless in the hands of the office-seckers and boodless generated under our redisting lers generated under our political systems as was Mr. Mackenzie in his time. I recall a remark made by Mr. Mackenzie, when he occupied a back seat in Opposition sometime in the sixties. Speaking of the Parliament he pronounced them out or an pro-portion beyond the needs of the country. Yet, a few years after, when in power, he not only fitted up ranges of additional effices in the reofs of all the buildings, but built a large block.

The Moose Sum Sinnes, and one or two smaller ones. These and recent additions have more than doubled the capacity of these wast hives of unproductive industry."

"Whatever you may do" said a rewd-looking livery stable keeper, shrew-looking livery stable keeper, "You'll not lower the cost of government. People may cry out against extravagance, but economy in expenditure is the most unpopular policy a public man can pursue. Not only are a majority of the electors willing to have publis money scattered with freehand, so they get a share of its but a very small number of able and selfish men can pull the wires to exert more influence on the action of government in laying out public mone than all the theorists who claino against waste. This being the east where are you going to begin ?"

"Begin," said the man of books, "by entting short the supplies. Let the people insist on a lower tariff all round The loss of revenue will compel heads of departments to discharge hundreds of useless officials, many of whom will become producers in some useful pur-suit."

"Buthow are you going to lower the duties," said the avowed "Grit," "Look at the members from Manitoba. Every man of them will vote party every time." And way not I' said the implement dealer. "do you want to turn Thomp-

And way not "said the implement dealer, "do you want to turn Thompson out and put Laurier in ! What earthly good would result from that ! I say that the fiscalpolicy should no longer be made a party question."
